This subproject is one of many research subprojects utilizing the resources provided by a Center grant funded by NIH/NCRR. The subproject and investigator (PI) may have received primary funding from another NIH source, and thus could be represented in other CRISP entries. The institution listed is for the Center, which is not necessarily the institution for the investigator. This project involves the development and testing of a monitoring system for the in vivo monitoring of lung sound pressures to determine ventilation status and/or respiratory flow rate. This system will measure and analyze the acoustic response of the respiratory system, including the pulmonary parenchyma and chest wall, during a forced breathing effort of a small animal model.

The Glenwood Roller Rink The Glenwood Roller Rink is a 1,800-capacity indoor ice hockey and roller hockey rink, located in Glenwood Village, Alberta, Canada. The rink is owned and operated by The Rinks Association of Alberta (TRA). Location and layout The rink has 1,800 seats, as well as private and public space for events and meetings. The rink is one of many in the city of Calgary, all owned by the TRA. Others include Legacy Place, Future Place, the Power Plant, and the Calgary Eaton Centre. The "Rinks" name was adopted in 2000, after a long debate and voting process to find a new name for the site. The previous name, "World Place," was adopted in 1968 when the facility was built on Calgary's World Place Mall, owned by the World Place Mall Company Ltd., a subsidiary of the Calgary-based Eaton's Department Store. The Glenwood Ice Arena has one sheet of ice, a mechanical Zamboni, and a public ice surface. The public ice surface is a synthetic ice surface, similar to that used at the Edmonton Place Centre (1996). History The rink's original construction began in 1968, when the World Place Mall was built. The "Rinks" name was adopted by the governing body of the facility in 2000, after a long debate and voting process to find a new name for the site. The facility
